Version 2

I did the best font for the first design, but changed the background in the second just to better the overall feeling. When I was researching the first design I noticed that it had to be legible on the inside of my car window. So I thought the picture of the starfish. So everything (words) can be larger for the second design. I dropped the picture of the starfish for all designs, and used the same 10 elements. I was inspired by my hobby, drawing/painting and started to draw on paper I found in the road. I do find the design funny, appears happy. Since it helped me to express my feelings instead of having it a specific one. I found the design, especially things I really found the design funny, appears happy. I want a bit further for the next one, as it is not what I want to express my feelings.
